

COREY GOODE's Responses to Questions

(published by Justin Deschamps on stillnessinthestorm.com)

Bill Ryan's responses and comments in red. NOT made public yet in any way (in this collated format).

Cited quotes by Corey or others are in green.

1. Ryan claims that, in 2014-2015 you sent him a series of messages one evening, and the next morning denied that you sent them. Ryan claims you were "split-minded" or under some kind of mind influence. He further claims that the messages were on each of your computers, which he apparently confirmed later. He asserts that all of this is an indication you are untrustworthy. How do you respond?

Goode: I do not remember this incident with the details provided. There was quite a lot of extreme drama on that Forum that lead [sic] up to me closing my account. It would be easy to verify where emails came from by tracing the Host Header of the Email's [sic] in question. I would need more details about his claims to respond fully.

We have all that documented. It's quite complex.

We had formed a research group to talk with Van Smith, a Georgia Guidestones specialist, after he and I had both received identical, detailed e-mails from someone called Jesse Ames (his real name, we discovered). Corey and three other non-Avalon-Moderators were invited to join the group. Jesse Ames claimed knowledge about the Guidestones that was not in the public domain.

After that, I received further threatening e-mails, now anonymous, that 'Jesse Ames is dead', and I should not publish the information.

In the middle of all this, Van Smith saw a new comment or comments on his own blog that had come from Corey, in the middle of the night. Corey was at that time strangely critical of Van (who is a very good man), urging us not to trust him.

When confronted, Corey stated he had no knowledge of having placed the comments there. By coincidence, Van Smith and Paul Jackson (one of Avalon's two senior admins, the other being Ilie Pandia) knew each other from Silicon Valley days. They are both genuine IT experts. They quickly established the comments really had been sent by Corey.

Either Corey was lying, or (more worryingly) truly had no memory of what he had done.

2. Ryan claims that you lied about when you came forward after leaving Project Avalon, saying that it was being outed by Ryan and Kerry Cassidy that ended your IT career. Ryan asserts that you were not employed during the Christine interview that took place in late 2014; therefore, you misrepresented yourself to the public by saying you lost your career. How do you respond?

Goode: I never claimed that I was fired due to Bill Ryan (BR) or Kerry Cassidy (KC). I was already going through a workers comp injury that involved 3 surgeries. I was fired illegally from that job after the injury. It was not a career ending injury and I was receiving dozens of job offers while going through surgeries.

I told Kerry Cassidy repeatedly that I would only provide information anonymously. After it was clear I would not do an interview she posted my name on her website and several times in one of her YouTube videos. She then refused to remove my name from both locations. I was in a panic for the safety of my family and my career. Finally, I was forced to send all of the Skype and Email conversations to YouTube/Google's complaint department. She was receiving her third strike with YouTube (Which would close her channel) and emailed me asking me to remove my complaint agreeing to remove my name from her website and video. I removed the complaint and we have kept this out of the public until now. All of this is documented.

I have all of the documentation to backup the fact that I was outed on Project Camelot by Kerry's "executive decision." Not only did this put my family in extreme danger, but then made it almost impossible for me to be hired in the IT field. Before these companies let you anywhere near their data or infrastructure, they do background checks and social media searches. If you claim to talk to non-terrestrials... They are not letting you near their Billion Dollar Data!

The 'six-figure income' claim is here: (as well as, I believe, in several other places)

https://jandean81.com/showthread.php/6302-The-Plan-\(blogs-by-theruiner777\)/page8?p=841919342&highlight=High%20Figure%20Per%20Year/page8?p=841919342&highlight=High%20Figure%20Per%20Year)

To say that I have gained anything financially or otherwise is a joke.

I have only lost things since my first interview was released by this person on another forum.

I have a wife and two children that they made sure out of spite I couldn't support via my business where I made (Past Tense) in the "High 6 Figure$ Per Year"

(Corey's original underlined emphasis.)

My own comment: Corey was on disability and was not working, before his 2014 Avalon interview was published... which he wanted me to do. There was no push from anyone else.

Corey sent me a Skype conversation between him and Christine Anderson (23 Oct 2014) in which Corey's enthusiasm for the release of the interview as soon as possible is very clear. He also expressed that to me, also documented. (He hasn't mentioned this here, specifically, but earlier has several times stated that he was under pressure to release the interview. Not so.)

Corey's full name is linked to his internet GoodETxSG moniker in several places, that he seemed to be unaware of, or did not know how to edit. Here are two:

http://projectavalon.net/Corey_GoodETxSG_1.gif
http://projectavalon.net/Corey_GoodETxSG_2.gif

I have a copy, sent to me by Corey himself, of a message received by him from an Avalon member who wanted to alert him that he had found his real identity on the internet 'within 5 minutes'.

The friendly member (whose name we know) wrote:

Hi Corey,
 Thank you for being so brave as to come forward with the information that you have so far.

It must have taken a lot out of you to go back through some of those hidden memories.

The reason I am contacting you is that I was a little concerned about how easy it is to find information on you, hence me addressing you as Corey, or is it James C Goode!

This information I found within 5 minutes of searching the net (just on my iPhone) with just the phrase "Goodetxsg" (Goode Texas State Guard), I found a complete work history, many photos of you, and found lookup sites that if I paid money for (I'm not going to do that!) would give your current address & telephone number in Texas.

I do not wish to frighten you, but maybe a change of forum name at least may help to give you more anonymity, and sever some of those connections.

Maybe others won't be as curious as I am on the net? But I do try to look out for people here if I can.

Anyway, if I can help in anyway with anything just let me know.

Love and Truth,
[Avalon username]

Corey forwarded this to me, adding:

I thought I had removed all references to TXSG, Corey or James Corey Goode in my threads. There is just a lot of posting history from myself and others referring to TXSG and Corey to redact... But this user took the time to data mine and find the info. Was disturbing to get this email this morning... I think they were just showing me how weak the anonymity was, but it was creepy enough.

3. Ryan claims that while you were participating in the Project Avalon forums, you were counseling various MILAB whistleblowers, apparently without permission from the moderators. Ryan feels this was a grave breach of trust on your part and is evidence, in his mind, that you have nefarious intentions. Were you asked not to do this? How do you respond?

Goode: Not at all true. I never counseled a single MILAB. I only listened to their information and referred them to a regression therapist. I spoke to BR and his wife at the time, Christine, about assisting the MILABs that began to reach out after my first interview. BR and the moderators began to let people in this confidential group willy nilly without any real vetting. I had no hand in bringing MILABs to this group.

My first interview was being used to draw in MILABs and the way things were handled, it made the Forum feel like a "honey pot" to draw in these people. This group became infiltrated very quickly and the normal "Forum Drama" began to occur. Some of these MILABs began to reach out to me personally with concerns about how the Forum group was being handled. This all turned into one of many disagreements between BR and myself.

One example of where Corey used the word:

<http://projectavalon.net/forum4/showthread.php?56532-U.S.-Has-8-Cigar-Shaped-UFOs-In-Space-Fleet-Used-For---Solar-Warden----Program-To-Protect-Solar-System&p=913263&viewfull=1#post913263>

For those who I am giving council too I will continue to do so in Unseen.is Email, Chat and Voice over IP w/those w/Unseen.is accounts at EncrypSec@Unseen.is
Thank you,
GoodETxSG

4. Ryan claims that your wife, Stacy, made a false accusation that Ryan was a member of the Church of Scientology. And that in the subsequent scuttlebutt, Stacy revealed in her commentary that you, Goode, were asked to produce a dossier on Ryan by "high authorities," a senior member of the church. Ryan contends that this is evidence you are working as an agent for an insidious group. How do you respond?

Goode: No one from any Scientology "like" organizations contacted me. Ever! No one from that organization asked me to produce a dossier on BR.

[BR on Scientology]

<https://youtu.be/fLyQ3V3pud4>

The way the forum members responded to the situation was typical of internet forums and a lesson to anyone to stay away from them. They are highly infiltrated by agents as well as a platform for narcissistic and sociopathic individuals. All you have to do is read some of the posts and feel the venomous energy behind them. The one recently posted on me is an obvious example of that forums history.

Corey's wife Stacy, then Avalon forum member SilverPhoenix, had wrongly stated I was 'a member of the Church of Scientology'. I never have been: she found the wrong 'Bill Ryan' on the internet, an older man, and an American. I corrected her, and she became extremely angry, claiming censorship.

This is the erroneous 'Bill Ryan in the Church of Scientology' reference: (Scroll down to find 'BILL RYAN', but that's not me.)

<https://web.archive.org/web/20030508052730/http://holysmoke.org/mo/officers-selection-board-1975.htm>

My own timeline round about that period is that after graduating in 1974 I worked for six months as a nursing auxiliary in a hospital in Bristol, England (because I was thinking of studying medicine) and then spent the summer of 1975 at home with my parents in Kent, England.

But Stacy then wrote on the forum here:

<http://projectavalon.net/forum4/showthread.php?78030-Posts-Censored-and-Removed-because-of-Entity-and-Scientology-References&p=913151&viewfull=1#post913151>

(extract) (yellow emphasis mine)

This was not my husband and I in a conspiracy using google to try to dig up dirt on bill. It was the correct bill ryan.

The links I posted were some that I remembered being displayed and the others I found after my husband closed the citrix shared session page the documents and links were displayed on from his conference call. This person is sending the documents of both the people talked about to my husband in the mail.

This person is both a high ranking Scientology Member with access to their meticulous records and also a person that works at the DHS that my husband worked with and has known and used to get background information on people for years. They displayed records on a citrix conference page and went over some of the church terms and abbreviations.

Corey went on to state himself that the 'dossier' on myself extended to over 70 pages. (It was never revealed who the other person was.)

5. Ryan claims that you were given access to an FBI database, and told Ryan as much in a skype message. He asserts this is further evidence you are an agent. How do you respond?

Goode: So, if anyone that is investigating a topic or a person in this field is given access to government documents that makes them an agent? Wouldn't that make every researcher in this field an agent by that standard?

If you look at my LinkedIn profile you will see that I received FEMA certifications when in the Texas State Guard.

Image Source.

While in those training sessions we rubbed shoulders with FEMA, FBI and other federal and local law enforcement and disaster response agencies. I was also a member of the FBI's "Infraguard" program. People should join and see what that is for themselves. I actually believed I was getting much more access than was available. It is a place to report cyber crimes and monitor them in real time. This tool is used for corporations to report or review reports of real-time hacking attacks and how to mitigate them.

I was not given access to any database other than the real-time hacking and malware data coming from the Infraguard website. I was provided pieces of files and a couple redacted files on certain individuals that were coming together to attack me. There were a number of people from this forum that were pointed out to me as being extremely compromised. I have received files and data from contacts I made.

I have had no access to the FBI Database... Ever. No matter what other doctored or misquoted communications BR posts.

Note: I never at any stage said Corey was an 'agent'. Just that he had agency connections or affiliations. That's just as important, simply not the same thing.

Skype chat with myself (Central Time, 10 Oct, 2014) is copied here.

Yipes... so i hve to b careful at first... wise.

6. Ryan claims that you started a blog after leaving the Project Avalon forums and were attempting to smear him and others there. How do you respond?

Goode: After the attacks on my wife and I, I was triggered and posted a lot of true and verified information about BR and his business practices and people that he has had business relations within South America (companies he has started etc...). I believe these pages are still available on Google archives if anyone wants to track them down. I did post that information during the height of the "Forum Wars of 2015" on my blog and them removed them a few months later after I cooled off. There were a lot of threads that I posted that others followed up on. I suggest people look into more of BR's past that is available online for anyone to find.

No attacks. The 'attacks' actually came from Stacy (his wife). Everything she wrote is publicly visible here:

<http://projectavalon.net/forum4/showthread.php?78030-Posts-Censored-and-Removed-because-of-Entity-and-Scientology-References>

(Note: This is barely relevant, but I've certainly never ever started a company, or had any 'business relations', in South America.)

7. Ryan claims that your story changed when you began speaking to David Wilcock, that it was "more polished" than the testimony you gave to Christine in 2014, which they took to mean, you concocted your story. How do you respond?

Goode: How did it "change"? When Christine came to my house to do the first interview, I had just had the "entity attachment" release that was causing me to have anxiety attacks or verbally stammer while trying to talk about these experiences. Interestingly enough, it was a disagreement over removing entity attachments that triggered BR and caused our final disagreement. Christine captured my first attempt to speak openly about all of this. It can be found on my SBA YouTube Channel. My testimony has evolved and been expounded upon in Cosmic Disclosure.

The original, unedited, raw audio, recorded by Christine Anderson with Corey's full permission on two separate days a week apart, is here.

Corey states

I come from a long line of Military Intel family, I have been told by Mil and Civ people that I am a MILAB, but I do not quite buy it... no memories of that stuff... wife says I act out battle scenarios and shout out orders in my sleep but I was an Intel/Communications guy... so I chalk that up to watching to many movies and listening to tooo many war stories.

8. Ryan claims that an unnamed intelligence agent contacted him saying that he has video footage of a conversation between you and your wife Stacey, wherein you were formulating the plan to deceive David Wilcock, captured via webcam activation. Ryan did not supply this footage. How do you respond?

Goode: Un-named intelligence agent = Shane Bales AKA "The Ruiner" who was exposed as a pathological liar and caught on many occasions making things up about myself and David Wilcock. He is not an intel agent by any stretch of the imagination. BR avoided using this "agents" name for a reason. The screen shot of a skype conversation, clearly edited, was from Shane. BR himself (along w/his forum) came out against this person as being untrustworthy. This usually happens with anyone that falls out of BR's good graces, but he was correct on this occasion. If this guy is a super hacker that infiltrated my network and turned on my laptop mic and video camera, then why trust any of the screen shots or other information that he provided BR and the Forum in question?

This is one more unfounded accusation (disinformation) and BR knows it. I have never had a conversation remotely like that with Stacy. I say post the video! Show it! Put up or shut up... This is Shane Bales we are talking about.

Again I say, post that alleged video footage. It doesn't exist. If this footage was lied about, how can anyone trust any of BR's other accusations against me? Or others for that matter. Think about it.

You can review Kerry Cassidy's opinion on this matter [here, where she disagree's with some of Ryan's claims about whistle blowers.]

That's correct: it was Shane Bales. In my interview with Daniel Liszt (the 'Dark Journalist'), I was careful to state clearly that this could not be substantiated.

9. Ryan further claims that the same intelligence agent contact sent a screenshot of a skype conversation between the agent and yourself, wherein you said "you are now on the payroll... so am I.. it is what it is." Since the original release of Ryan's article, some have come forward refuting the screenshot as a forgery, saying your chat messages were altered. Did you actually send this message and is what appears the image your words? If so, how do you explain what these mean? How do you respond?

Goode: I did speak w/Shane in skype until DW and I caught him in a number of fabrications. The conversation in question was edited somehow, but some of the terms were used. We were talking about how we thought we [sic] were done with all of these programs. Being forced "back on the payroll" is a way of saying that I was being forced back into working with these groups again in an [sic] professional like status. This was taken and made to look like I was being paid by the powers that be. I have never been paid to be in the SSP "Programs," nor am I now. I have never received any payments from the powers that be. This statement was taken out of context to purposely make me look like an agent by either Shane or BR.

It was reported to me that BR has also told people that he had an investigator look into me and found that I was receiving payments from "government sources". BR cannot back up any of his accusations with evidence that stands up.

It wasn't edited in any way. That full Skype chat was sent by Corey himself to several Avalon members. A number of people have it and are willing to confirm it was unedited by anyone after Corey shared it.

10. Ryan claims that the bulk of your testimony is a "carbon copy" of other whistle blowers, and that your claims are just too wild to believe, thus, in his mind, you can't be authentic. How do you respond?

Goode: Once my information violated BR's UFO religion, things went south very quickly. This is easy to verify by looking at Forum records (unless deleted or edited once more) his forum is controlled like a small totalitarian country. You either tow the line or you [sic] are either pushed out by other loyal forum members or are "un-subscribed" from the forum. If you do not believe me, open up an account there and speak your mind for a few weeks. You will wish you hadn't. This is what occurred in 2015.

He and others in that Forum have claimed I data mine and steal other people's testimony. This was claimed about William Tompkins as well. Even though my info came out prior. You really have to look into these people and see their venomous attacks on a number of people other than myself. If you do the research you will see a clear pattern of behavior and accusations. This group seems to follow this pattern in an unbroken cycle. That is one reason I have warned people about hanging out in forums. I have not recycled anyone's information.

The '20-and-back' notion, central to Corey's claims (or else nothing at all would fit in his personal life timeline in any way) is completely recycled from Michael Relfe's story, published by his wife Stephanie in 2000. See <http://TheMarsRecords.com>.

I recently received this quite unexpected e-mail from Stephanie, who wrote the two books, both free for anyone to download at that site.

Dear Bill,
 Thank you for your words of support re The Mars Records and enlightening people about Goode.
 We have posted your interview at TheMarsRecords.com.
 Best regards
 Stephanie Relfe

Michael Relfe's claims are de facto unverifiable, but the two books meticulously detail regression sessions done by Stephanie, a qualified therapist, and chronicle his gradual understanding (rather to his own disbelief and astonishment at the time) of what he now thinks happened to him.

It's worthy of note that Corey has NOT done any regressions, believes them (incorrectly) to be 'intrusive' (his word), and has also declined to undertake any polygraph test.

11. Ryan claims that if you were an authentic whistle blower, you would have never been allowed to continue talking. He seems to imply that you have had no problems with various authorities in sharing your testimony, that it has been 100% "approved" by high-level players in the programs. Is this implication true? How do you respond?

Goode: By Bill's logic, William Tompkins, Clifford Stone, Pete Peterson, etc, are all liars or agents since they are still alive after coming forward. Does Bill believe that Steven Greer and his list of whistleblowers who testified in 2001 are also liars or agents since they are all alive? What about all of the people they interviewed on Project Camelot? They would all be liars or agents according to this logic.

As William Tompkins has testified a faction of the US Navy is now wanting all of this disclosed. They gave him the green light to report on the same programs I was involved in. He had direct approval to release his information. Being that I was in these programs, I was given more protection when it came to being a whistle-blower.

I have had an attempt to poison me at the airport, have had Chinooks flying over my house (I'm nowhere near an airbase) and have had multiple targeting lasers from sniper rifles appear on my chest while outside with my children. Most recently I ended up in the emergency room from an attack.

Sadly, most of the most threatening attacks occurred when some of these forum members began to find out where I lived. I had a number of these forum members stalking me online. The line was drawn for me when some of them began to show up around my home and began to harass my family. We moved and took security precautions very quickly after a few incidents around my house.

BR himself had told me that I needed to come out in a big way to ensure the safety of my family. He asserted that if I was public, if the powers that be killed me it would just validate my testimony. This is also what Gaia told me and what made me to agree to Cosmic Disclosure.

There's a LOT to suggest that Peterson, Greer, Tompkins, are all now compromised. (And also Andrew Basiago, a decent man who really does believe everything he's ever stated.) It's beyond the scope of a note of this nature to document all that here.

Richard Dolan stated in his answer to a question at the end of a recent Australian presentation that he was offered the opportunity to publish Tompkins' book. He said:

"I could not EVER, in good conscience, publish that book. I just find way too much that's questionable about it, and I would not EVER want to associate my name with it."

Of course, there are some genuine whistleblowers who have not suffered because of their courage. But many HAVE suffered, a lot — or died. And none had ever had their own year-long TV show.

Re Avalon members harassing his family, I don't believe that for a moment. I believe that to be a lie. If it's not, Corey should name names — because he'd have to know names in order to identify them as Avalon members. (And even then, how would he know what they looked like, or what their real names were?)

This sounds like a police matter, and so he should report that. If he's unable to substantiate his claim, then it's defamation of an organization, which becomes a legal issue.

In this video, Stacy has made a number of useful points.

<http://projectavalon.net/forum4/showthread.php?p=1158207#post1158207>

12. Ryan claims that you are a conscious deceiver, that you know your story is untrue and are promoting it anyway. How do you respond?

Goode: He claims that I'm not really an IT professional as well. I invite people to check my references from my LinkedIn Profile as well as verify my MCSE and A+ Certifications. I was in the IT Field for over 20 years and this is easily provable.

An article written by Corey Goode from 2003, protesting IT jobs moving to India, suggesting he did work as an IT professional: [Outsourcing to India: Offshore Debate Rages.]

As far as being a conscious deceiver. What is he basing this on? His opinion? The collective opinion of his forum? He certainly isn't basing this accusation off of the reverse speech analysis that showed no deception. Or the recent video of people studying my body language where they also concluded "Corey believes what he is saying"?

Corey's IT experience was almost certainly very low level: not an 'expert' in any way. There's a detailed response here, by Avalon Administrator Paul Jackson (who really is an ex-Silicon Valley IT expert):

<http://projectavalon.net/forum4/showthread.php?97313-The-Truth-about-Corey-Goode&p=1159724&viewfull=1#post1159724>

Reverse speech analysis means exactly zero. :)

Closing Comments from Goode

These are just more unfounded accusations made by this group.

Out of over 300,000 fans, there are less than 50 detractors on Avalon. To call this a noisy minority would be an understatement.

There are many well-known names in our research field who have said publicly or privately that they will not be associated with this story. The latest are Linda Howe and Jim Nichols, both on record. Off-record, there are many other well-known names. Radio hosts who are severely critical on record include Randy Maugans, Jesse Randolph, and Alexandra Bruce. I'm confident there are many more I'm unaware of.

Blogs and YouTube commenters are full of people ridiculing Corey's Story. They're easy to find.

Since this has occurred I have had many emails forwarded to me by individuals that had originated from Bill Ryan (BR), campaigning against me. Not only has he been on an email campaign to try to discredit me but has also worked behind the scenes with others to coordinate attacks. This is more like the behavior of an agent than anything I have done.

BR told me that a close friend that was a private investigator was looking into me.

A flat-out lie. I don't know any Private Investigators, and certainly can't afford one!

No 'e-mail campaigns', or 'coordinated attacks'. I've been quiet about this for two years, and my interview with Daniel Liszt was requested by him, not me.

What did he find? Nothing! BR needs to back up his claims with something other than his opinion, referencing mysterious evidence he cannot share or speculation. These types of accusations require proof! Not doctored "proof" from his forum.

All I can say is do some research on this forum and all involved with its forum leader. Once you read their energy and see what drama has occurred in that forum you can "consider the source" and move on like everyone else does.

All of the above accusations are either completely fabricated by BR or others from the forum or were once facts that have been twisted to a point of being unrecognizable. The forum post by BR "the Truth About Corey Goode" is a clear dis-info campaign.

No 'disinfo'. Everything stated there is documented.

Remember, people tend to accuse you of what they would do in the exact situation. When they accuse you of something, pay close attention, you will learn much about your attacker.

My policy has been not to respond to these individuals. It just gives a wider audience to their feeding frenzy energy. These attacks pop up on the RADAR and quickly disappear, usually backfiring on the attacker. I expect this one will be no different. This is a very small forum with a very dubious history and is highly infiltrated. These attacks have occurred in cycles and they change them up trying to find something that sticks.

I have received quite a lot of information about how some of these people are coordinating in the background. Some of them even plan on attending Contact in the Desert to stir up problems between Dr. Greer and myself as well as do some ambush videos of them making scenes during presentations.

If anything like that was planned by anyone, or even happened, I know nothing about it. I don't believe this to be true.

How does this bring unity to the community? Divide and conquer is a Cabal tactic.

I will end my final response to these attacks by saying, research these people. Take a close look at their language and energy, and the evidence used to support their claims, then consider the source. There is nothing to their accusations but speculation and deceitful assertions. We are trying to bring a bit of "Unity in the Community" so we can focus the energy of those who want to work together on disclosure. We are trying to organize people under the idea that none of us knows the entire truth. We can put aside the differences in our belief systems (reality bubbles) and work together for full disclosure. We will have to weed out those who only want division or have professional jealousy issues if we ever want disclosure.

In my opinion these people are self-identifying and are minimizing their selves in this field even further than they have with previous actions.

Corey Goode

My final comment:

This shows very clearly that Corey is either a frequent conscious liar, or has pathologically severe memory problems.

(Or course, memory problems can induce confabulation, a form of lying to oneself. But that would be for a specialist to diagnose.)
